Geometry of Subanalytic and Semialgebraic Sets Hiroshi Shiota 1997 Subanalytic and semialgebraic sets were introduced for topological and system investigations of real analytic and algebraic sets. One of the author's purposes is to show that almost all (known and unknown) properties of semialgebraic sets follow abstractly from some fundamental axioms. Another is to develop methods of proof that use finite processes instead of infinite vector fields. The proofs are elementary, but the results obtained are new and significant - for example, for singularity theorists and topologists. New methods and tools developed provide solid foundations for further research by model theorists (logicians) who are interested in applications of theory to geometry. A knowledge of basic topology is required.

The ABCs of Debt Stephen P. Parsons 2019-02-11 Using a hands-on approach, The ABCs of Debt: A Case Study Approach to Debtor/Creditor Rights and Bankruptcy Law, Fifth Edition bridges the difference between understanding bankruptcy concepts and applying them with confidence. Proceeding with the premise that the specialized study of bankruptcy requires an adequate foundation in other aspects of debtor/creditor relations. This knowledge is reinforced by realistic, current case studies that introduce, explain, and illustrate bankruptcy law and procedure. Students see how a bankruptcy case unfolds, from the moment a debtor makes contact with a lawyer until the case is closed. That chronological, step-by-step approach to study cases filed under Chapter 7, Chapter 13, and Chapter 11. This book aspires not just to teach students "about" bankruptcy, but also to show how to "do" bankruptcy. Broad coverage includes bankruptcy law, debt creation, secured transactions, the law of liens, and debt collection. Fifth Edition: Updated to reflect significant court decisions regarding debt collection and bankruptcy including: Czyzewski v. Jevic Holding Corp. striking down structured settlements regarding a Chapter 11 debtor that conflict with §507 priorities unless affected creditors consent Midland v. Appling, holding that a material misstatement in writing about a single asset can be a "statement respecting the debtor's financial condition," rendering debt related to the asset nondischargeable under §523(a)(2)(B) Epic Systems Corp. v. Lewis holding that private-sector non-union employers can use class action arbitration provisions to bar employees from joining in a class action or collective arbitration to contest alleged wage and hour violation Updated reference to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau and the Department of Education (student loans), payday lending, and car loans Analysis of the bankruptcy for those age 65 and older Demonstration bankruptcies moved to appendices for easy reference Revised case studies comply with amendments to the official bankruptcy forms in effect at the time of publication including the important new Form B113, Chapter 13 Plan a U.S. Judicial Conference in 2017 Professors and students will benefit from: Realistic Case Studies that add a strong skill-building component to bankruptcy law Problem-Hypotheticals in which students apply concepts to realistic situations Learn-by-Doing exercises, examples, and illustrations sequential organization of bankruptcy topics that mirrors practice Ethical Considerations that highlight relevant ethical or professional challenges presented by the topic under discussion Chapter summaries, review questions, and sample forms View from the Bench case excerpts, accounts Applying the Law exercises, that link doctrine to practice Engaging and informative text boxes Key Concepts at the start of each chapter Companion Files for both case studies—provided for students on the companion website at WKLegaledu.com/Parsons-Debt5 and referred to throughout make up Part B To Learn More (TLM) activities for each chapter—available on the companion website—designed to challenge and enable the student to do further research on issues raised in the text or to consult additional resources for further learning
